Hello Johannes,

Glad you like the guitar.

About the pick guard, some guitars its harder to remove the foil but rubbing with alcohol and microfibre cloth it cleans everything, you have to be very careful and not press very hard on the pick guard, otherwise you get scratches all over the pick-guard.

We emailed the distributor here in Spain and they haven't got the replacement.

If you have any other question, don't hesitate to contact us. I'll be happy to provide all info needed.

Have a nice day!

Hello Xavier,

i am really satisfied with the Godin Session LTD. However before i write the review i wanted to note one thing.

When i removed the foil from the pickguard the glue that is between foil and pickguard stayed ON the pickguard. Removing the foil was very hard, sometimes it ripped during the process. It felt like the foil and the glue dried out.

I found a Video on Youtube that Shows the same Problem: <https://youtu.be/8hXTXdZlqs8?t=84>

However in my case the glue kinda became a part of the pickguard , so now it looks scratchy and dull. Like a USED Pickguard.

As an official dealer for Godin it should be possible for you to get a replacement pickguard. I think this is the product: <https://godinguitars.com/product/tortoise-session-pickguard-with-engraved-godin-logo>

Since my guitar is brand new and was sold under this specification, i am sure this is covered by Godins guarantee! I can change the pickguard by myself, so i would be enough if you send the replacement to me. I do the rest. No need to send the guitar back! In every other aspect the guitar is perfect and i love it!

Nice Day!

Johannes
